Mathematics 101: Calculus I

This course is designed for students who have completed high school calculus or its equivalent. It covers the fundamentals of differential and integral calculus, including the derivative, the integral, and the applications of these concepts.

The course is divided into three main sections: Derivatives, Integrals, and Applications. The Derivatives section covers the definition of the derivative, the rules of differentiation, and the applications of the derivative to optimization problems. The Integrals section covers the definition of the integral, the rules of integration, and the applications of the integral to area and volume problems. The Applications section covers the applications of the derivative and the integral to physics and engineering problems.

The course is taught in a lecture format, with the instructor presenting the material and the students participating in class discussions and problem-solving exercises. The course is supported by a textbook, Calculus: Early Transcendentals, by James Stewart, Jr., published by Cengage Learning. The course is also supported by a variety of online resources, including video lectures, interactive applets, and online problem sets.

The course is graded on a scale of 0 to 100, with the following breakdown:

Exams: 60% of the final grade. The course includes three exams: a mid-term exam, a final exam, and a take-home exam. The mid-term exam is held during the first half of the course, the final exam is held at the end of the course, and the take-home exam is held during the final week of the course.

Homework: 20% of the final grade. The course includes a series of homework assignments, each due at the end of a class session. The homework assignments are designed to reinforce the concepts covered in class and to provide students with practice in problem-solving.

Classroom Participation: 20% of the final grade. The course includes a series of classroom activities, including group work, peer review, and presentations. The classroom activities are designed to encourage students to participate in the learning process and to develop their communication and teamwork skills.

RES.

A large, abstract, black and white graphic resembling a stylized, fragmented letter 'A' or a complex geometric shape, composed of numerous small, irregular black blocks and lines on a white background. The shape is composed of many small, irregular black blocks and lines, creating a pixelated or fragmented appearance. The overall form is roughly triangular, with a wide base and a narrow top, but the edges are jagged and composed of many small segments. The background is white, and the black blocks are scattered throughout the shape, creating a sense of depth and complexity. The graphic is centered on the page and occupies most of the vertical space.

1. The first step is to identify the problem or question that needs to be answered. This involves understanding the context and the specific requirements of the task.

2. Next, it is important to gather relevant information and data. This can be done through research, consultation with experts, or by analyzing existing data sets.

3. Once the information is gathered, the next step is to analyze it. This involves identifying patterns, trends, and relationships that can help in understanding the problem.

4. After analysis, the next step is to develop a solution or plan. This involves identifying the most effective approach to solve the problem, taking into account the available resources and constraints.

5. Finally, the solution is implemented and the results are evaluated. This involves monitoring the progress of the implementation and making adjustments as needed to ensure that the problem is solved effectively.

The following table shows the results of the regression analysis for the dependent variable "Perceived Organizational Support" (POS). The independent variables are "Organizational Commitment" (OC) and "Organizational Identification" (OI). The table includes the regression coefficients (B), standard errors (SE), t-statistics, and p-values for each variable.

Variable	B	SE	t	p
OC	0.12	0.03	3.87	0.000
OI	0.08	0.02	3.21	0.001
Constant	1.56	0.15	10.40	0.000

The regression equation is: $POS = 0.12OC + 0.08OI + 1.56$. The adjusted R-squared value is 0.45.
